Bibliographic Resources

This site explains the differences between a variety of distance learning technologies.

This site discusses the advantages/disadvantages commonly associated with distance education.

Irby and Li provide a general overview of distance education with some specific recommendations on how to implement best practices into a distance learning environment.

Muirhead, Bill. "A Canadian Perspective on the Uncertain Future of Distance Education." Distance Education 26.2 (2005): 239-254.
Muirhead's article explores the future of distance education, both the good and the bad, from a Canadian perspective.

Mupinga addresses distance education as it relates to high school education, and discusses the specific challenges teachers and students might encounter.